NEW BROCKTON TO HAVE RECREATION COMMITTEE

Town council discusses police matters

by Marvin McLwain
Editor

New Brockton's 13-item agenda town council meeting, which included a brief executive session, lasted just over an hour Monday evening.

After approving minutes of the last meeting and payment of monthly bills totaling $12,626.83, the mayor and council settled into the business at hand.

The majority of the meeting centered around topics involving the police department - hiring of an officer, a wreck involving the chief's personal vehicle, a stolen walkie-talkie and the police activity report.

Police Chief Charles Driggers informed members of the council that he had received an estimate of damages done to his personal vehicle, while acting in an official capacity for the town.

The chief was involved in an accident in September of 1994 while responding to a call on his personal car (van). He told the council that an accident report was filed out, but since that time it has "come up missing."

Chief Driggers stated that the other party involved in the accident did not have insurance and that his insurance would not cover the damage. He was asking that the town department be asked to pay for the cost of repairs.

After a brief discussion, the council asked the chief to provide them with a statement of what happened, along with the estimated cost of repairs, and it would be submitted to the town's insurance carrier for consideration.

Next, there was a brief discussion concerning a walkie-talkie belonging to the police department that had been stolen.

The walkie-talkie was in the possession of Officer Darrell Griswald and was taken from his personal vehicle while in Dale County. Each police officer is assigned a walkie-talkie for his use while on-duty or on-call; however, he was on neither at the time of the theft.

Griswald told members of the council that his insurance company had informed him that the property, valued at $500, was not covered under the terms of his policy.

The council requested Griswald to obtain a copy of the offense report from the authorities in Dale County, and the matter would be presented to the town's insurance carrier for review. A decision will be made on the replacement of the equipment after the company's response.

Upon the recommendation of Councilman Charles Cole, the council voted to place police officer William King on permanent status with the department. It was noted that Officer King is intoxicated.

The chief reported that his department, during the past month, had answered 21 complaints, made 11 criminal arrests, and issued 18 traffic citations.

Police officers investigated 4 traffic accidents with 3 injuries and 1 fatality, rescue squad members responded to 20 calls, and the fire department answered 2 alarms.

Mayor Kathryn Holley informed the council that the archival grant has been completed. The total cost of the project to preserve the town's records was $6,076.45; however, the cost to the town was only $2,066.55.

She noted that all the town's records from 1902 until April 1995, which include ordinances, meeting minutes, financial statements, resolutions, audits, court records and a historical scrapbook, are now recorded on micro film.

In addition to paying for the process of placing the records on micro film, a reader/printer was purchased for use by the town.

Turning to other matters, a discussion concerning the hiring of a concession stand operator for the town's ballpark resulted in a brief executive session.

The council, after reconvening following the executive session, voted not to hire anyone to run the concession stand at the ballpark during the summer.

However, earlier in the meeting, the council did approve paying Andy Farris for the time that she had operated the concession stand.

While on the subject of recreation, Councilman Cole suggested that a recreation committee be appointed to advise and to make recommendations to the council on how to improve the town's recreation program.

Cole proposed that a person from each council district be appointed to the committee. Members of the council are to seek out persons willing to serve and recommend their appointment at the next council meeting.

The comment was made that the committee's first project might be to assist in raising funds to enlarge the town's present recreation facilities or to construct a new complex.

Before adjourning, the council was reminded by Councilmember Rose Ann Lewis that this year's Fourth of July Celebration in the Park will be held Saturday, July 1st from 9:00 a.m. until 9:30 p.m.

There will be arts and crafts on sale, entertainment, fireworks, and plenty of food.

Red Cross opens shelter in Enterprise for Hurricane Allison evacuees

by Marvin McLwain
Editor

This past weekend, the Coffee County Chapter of the American Red Cross opened a shelter for those seeking refuge from Hurricane Allison.

The first hurricane of the season was predicted to make landfall in the Florida panhandle area sometime early Monday morning, and it did.

The shelter, which was located at the College Avenue Church of Christ in Enterprise, was made available not only to those who had been evacuated from Florida and traveling north, but also to residents of Southeast Alabama who felt they would be in danger.

This area has seen what even a tropical depression can do in terms of destruction," said Keila Rader, Chapter Manager for Coffee County Chapter, serving Coffee and Geneva counties. "We mobilized so as to insure people would have food and shelter should the need arise."

Sunday night, 82 evacuees and area residents spent the night in the shelter.

Volunteers provided cots and blankets while food and drinks were provided by local vendors. A total of 175 meals at breakfast Monday morning were served.

As it turned out, Coffee County and Southeast Alabama was spared any serious damages; however, the area did receive some very much needed rainfall. The farmers were extremely grateful.

The shelter was officially closed at 10 a.m. Monday after the National Weather Bureau announced that the danger had passed.

All Red Cross disaster relief is free, a gift made possible through the generosity of the American people.

Anyone wishing to help victims of this or other disasters can do so through a contribution to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund, P.O. Box 375, Enterprise, AL 36331.

County opens Farmers Market

by Marvin McLwain
Editor

On Tuesday it became official, Coffee County now has a Farmers Market.

The market was opened to area farmers at 6:00 a.m. and they were invited to bring their "home grown" fruits and vegetables, as well as home crafts to offer for sale to the public.

The market will be open each Tuesday and Friday during the growing season and will remain open until the farmers sell out or get tired.

"This is an opportunity for all of our local growers to sell their harvest and is also an opportunity for people to purchase fresh homegrown fruits and vegetables," said Richard Fletcher, Coffee County Assistant Extension Agent.

FAST BECOMING DANGEROUS INTERSECTION...Monday afternoon there was another two-car collision at the intersection of Co. Rd. 114 and AL Hwy. 167. In recent weeks, there have been several wrecks at this "clear" area to see for a good distance in all directions intersection. Three persons were injured in Monday's wreck involving a couple from Florida and three persons from Pike County (Brundidge). The injured, whose names were not made available, were transported to Medical Center Enterprise by two units of the Enterprise Rescue Squad. Units from the Coffee County Sheriff's Department assisted rescue personnel and the Alabama State Trooper at the scene. At times, this is a very busy intersection since Co. Rd. 114 is an access road to Southland Trailers. Authorities urge persons passing through this intersection to exercise extreme caution.

Captain Kyle briefs Lions Club on EMS

by Marvin McLwain
Editor

The captain of the Elba Rescue Squad, Ray Kyle, spoke to the Elba Lions Club concerning EMS (Emergency Medical Services) for local citizens.

Capt. Kyle told Lions that in recent months the squad's membership has dropped considerably causing day service to become a problem.

"We've had quite a few folks that have had other commitments and we've lost several near and dear friends, not by death but by other jobs," said Kyle.

The loss suffered by the squad has been mainly of EMTs (Emergency Medical Technicians) and EVOC (Emergency Vehicle Operator Certified) drivers.

Kyle told club members that the squad, at the present time, has several applications for membership, but there is still a need for more members.

He noted that the rescue squad is made up of volunteers, men and women, who serve without compensation in providing emergency medical service to area citizens.

All monies received by the squad, either by payment for runs by individuals or insurance providers or donations is used for equipment and/or vehicle operation. No personal compensation is received by any rescue personnel.

Members of the squad pay for their own training and expenses incurred traveling to and from school or in-service training. All members must be a licensed EMT (or in the process of obtaining a license), paramedic or an EVOC driver.

They also respond to the emergency vehicles used in making runs at their own expense and sometimes, they go straight to the scene of an emergency on their own vehicles.

The average membership of the rescue squad is about 30 individuals.

all volunteers with other full-time jobs, as well as families to take care of. Each member averages being on-call for the squad 96 hours per month, not including meeting times and "unscheduled" ambulance runs.

Emergency runs usually come at the most inopportune time - members are fast asleep, doing family things, eating, at church or involved in other activities.

"The rescue squad is a licensed provider, by the State of Alabama, of emergency medical service; however, should the squad become unable to provide 24-hour emergency service, that license would be revoked."

Should this happen, it is quite probable that a private ambulance service would come in as a provider of emergency medical service.

Kyle noted that although most companies, you do not receive the "personal touch" or "extra service" given by your local rescue squad members.

"We (the rescue squad) have carried senior citizens home from the hospital, put them to bed, cut out the lights and left them safe and sound."

POSTMASTER RETIRES...Elba's Postmaster, Bill Bullard, retired last month after working with the U.S. Postal Service for 34-1/2 years. Bullard began his career with the Postal Service on Nov. 17, 1960 when he was hired by Robert L. Cooper, who was Postmaster at that time, as a postal clerk in the Elba Post Office. He spent his entire career in Elba, except for 7 months when he was transferred to Dothan during a cut back in postal employees. Upon his retirement, Bullard was honored by his fellow workers with a retirement party and was presented a plaque which expressed their appreciation for his leadership. They all agree, along with the local patrons of the Post Office, Bill Bullard will be missed. Bill said that he plans to do a lot of fishing.

BRAINSTORMS

With Ferrin Cox

The federal peanut program is "on the table." That means the politicians in Washington are debating a proposal to discontinue the quota/price support program. Last week Representative Cal Dooley, of California, introduced a substitute bill that has upset the peanut grower's associations. He would phase out the quota and support price over a five year period. It would be replaced with a government loan program offering farmers a loan of 85-90% of the five year average market price for the expected yield. The government would then buy the crop if prices dropped below loan value. Opponents compare that to slow death, rather than an instant death.

While dwelling on the welfare of our farmer friends, note the following: Cattle prices are dropping and are predicted to fall even more. Experts predict it will be 1997 before there is any upturn in the price of beef. It will take that long to get the oversupply of cattle out of the system. At the same time grain (translates cattle feed) prices are rising and another batch of experts expect them to rise higher. Production drops in countries such as China are fast eating away at the worldwide stockpile. Also the U.S. government urged American farmers to cut back on corn acreage this year, after a bumper crop last year, thus adding to the projected world shortage of grain. Cost going up and sale prices going down... only the genius of an American farmer can survive in that type economy. Maybe they can make up the losses by planting a lot of cotton and shipping it to overseas customers.

Senator Howell Herlin's seat in the U.S. Senate continues to draw a lot of trial balloons as potential replacements test the waters for a run at the statewide race and six year trip to Washington. We expect ill winds will crash many of the balloons before qualifying day, 1996!

One candidate we don't expect to call it quits is Roger Bedford, from Russellville. Roger served in the Alabama legislature, has run a statewide race before, got back in the legislature, and knows the drill and how to raise the money. We saw him in Montgomery several weeks ago and he said that we would be seeing a lot of him during that upcoming campaign. Not knowing if that was confidential or for publication, we kept quiet until his name kept popping up in other publications as one of the aspiring candidates. Right now consider Bedford if you are hunting an early candidate to place your sure bets on.

We don't understand the opposition to the idea of Alabama having a law mandating automobile liability insurance. The amazing thing is that insurance companies, which would naturally sell more policies, seem to be solid in their opposition to such a law. This ain't new for them either, as we have heard from company types for years that it isn't a good idea. Personally we think a person who puts one of those missiles on the highway should be responsible for any damages it happens to do.

This area dodged a bullet Monday morning when Hurricane Allison failed to develop into a major storm nor hit us directly with the punch it did have. While it ain't nice to wish troubles on others, we consider it human to be thankful Allison didn't hit, and hurt, us.

Up in Boston a female weight lifter has apparently won a battle to use the big weight machines previously reserved for men. This young woman, who also happens to be a law student, likes to leg press 600 pound weights and these were only in the men's section of the city owned gym. She got arrested for using the wrong (men's) room and threatened to sue for her constitutional rights. Ironically the men and women were split up at the request of women. They said men monopolized the lighter women's machines. They also complained of men ogling them in their tight workout outfits. All that may be (probably is) true, but now things are going to change somewhat. Personally we think that a woman who enjoys pressing 600 lbs can work out anywhere she likes... kinda like the story of "where does an 800 lb gorilla sleep - anywhere he likes."

Vacationers headed for Panama City need to heed the warning flags on the beach. A new law allows law officers to arrest those who ignore the flags warning of the dangerous swimming conditions along the beaches. This follows a spurt of three drownings in one week and a case of one man continuing to re-enter the water after being rescued at least twice. The shame of this is that we have reduced our common sense to the point the law is necessary.

Other items of business addressed by the council consisted of the following:

Approved moving next month's council meeting to Monday, July 10th, instead of Monday, July 3rd.

Voted to give the town employees Good Friday off, with pay, starting next year (1996).

Agreed to buy-back 8,000 cigarette stamps at a cost of $288.00. The stamps will in turn be sold to other vendors needing them.

Noted that a trailer (manufactured home) located on N. John Street was not in violation of the zoning ordinance.

Approved an application for credit at Lowe's in Enterprise.

Tabled consideration of the garbage contract until the next council meeting.

Submitted a nuisance law to the town's attorney for review and possible consideration at a later date by the council.

Approved getting estimates for repairing a roll-up door on the fire department bay.

Agreed to look into the possibility of getting the right-of-ways on town streets sprayed for weed control.

Risk Assessment--Adding Common Sense to Federal Regulations

by Charles R. Barnette, Ala. Director
Citizens for a Sound Economy

Don't assume that changes in Washington have automatically meant a reduction in the number and complexity of federal regulations. While the House has voted to limit new federal regulations in its Common Sense Regulatory Reform Bill, the Senate will consider the issue in June.

A check of the Federal Register, however, shows that in spite of Congressional intent, new federal regs are still being issued daily. In fact, a recent administration document lists over 4,300 new regulations still to come.

One idea moving through Congress would not only stifle the flow of new regulations, but force Federal bureaucrats to reexamine those regulations already issued. That idea is called "risk assessment." A Risk Assessment would require federal regulators to evaluate the real risk and determine whether the regulation really achieves anything.

For example, according to Professor Richard Stroup of the University of Montana, the odds of being killed on the ground by a falling airplane in the United States during a 70 year life-span are roughly four in a million. Yet, the Environmental Protection Agency has ordered costly cleanup of supposedly "hazardous" waste sites in cases where the potential threat to our health is only one in a million.

We must ask, does it make sense to spend $30 million for an average cleanup, when so much more can be achieved with that same amount of money? Despite the potential danger, airplanes are still allowed to fly because the risk is low enough to accept. The same principle should be applied to other potential risks.

Consider for example that a federal court struck down federal regulations by pointing out that over the next 13 years, more than a dozen people will die from swallowed roadkill, which is more than twice the number of potential deaths from the $250 million ban of asbestos pipe, shingles, and roof coatings.

We could have better spent that same money to prevent thousands of potential deaths

Americans now spend over $600 billion annually to comply with federal regulations. This is money taken away from the citizens that can't be used in any other way than to meet bureaucratic standards. Risk assessments would ensure that regulators decide ahead of time what is the better investment of the taxpayers' dollars. After all, the business of government is ours. What we need is some common sense measures. The end result could be that many proposed regulations, as well as thousands during the past three decades, would not meet the basic test of whether the costs outweigh the risk. Now is the time for the Senate to act in a common sense manner.

Consider for example that a federal court struck down federal regulations by pointing out that over the next 13 years, more than a dozen people will die from swallowed roadkill, which is more than twice the number of potential deaths from the $250 million ban of asbestos pipe, shingles, and roof coatings.

We could have better spent that same money to prevent thousands of potential deaths through cancer screenings, or we could have achieved better health care units in small towns and achieved far better protection of our citizens. Instead of spending $168.2 million to avert one death under the Benzene Neshap Standard, we could have put 3,064 police officers on the street.

There is some need for federal regulation, but such regulations should involve common sense. A billion dollars spent on auto safety would save 10,000 lives, while that same billion spent to regulate asbestos would prevent only 13.7 deaths. We must ask, which is the better investment of time and resources?

Instead of spending $119 billion to avert one death under the Formaldehyde Occupations Exposure Limit, 331 new drugs could be developed and brought to market. Instead of spending $92.1 billion to avert one death under the Atrazine/Alachlor Drinking Water Standard, cancer research could have been quadrupled for the next 12 years.

Citizens for a Sound Economy is a national, nonpartisan grassroots organization dedicated to returning economic decisions to citizens. Founded in 1984, it has over 250,000 members in every state and congressional district in the United States. Charles Barnette is state director for CSE in Alabama.

Dear Editor,

To the citizens and City of Elba and surrounding areas, I, Ray Price, worked for the City of Elba for years and retired with the City of Elba until they contracted the garbage and trash to International Services from Dothan, Alabama. International Services later changed their name to ISS. I worked with them for 7 or 8 years. ISS subcontracted to City Environmental Services from Detroit, Michigan. I could not work under these people, so I quit. I understand that someone said that when I quit that things were in a mess with the front-end loader dumpsters. Why things got in a mess with the front-end loader was poor equipment. The other problem with the front-end loader was that we only had enough trucks to run the routes with. When one truck broke down that would leave only one truck to run the routes with and at times we ran one truck, day and night, for both shifts. The way I see it, they are trying to run the job with only half enough personnel and things have been in a mess since I left there. All the years that I worked with the City of Elba, my work was satisfactory and there was no complaints with the way I did my job and I think my record speaks for itself with the City of Elba. I also had no complaints from ISS for as long as I worked with them and my work was satisfactory. I have never had any complaints on my job until the City Environmental Services subcontracted from ISS.

In closing, I would like to say that if the manager for the City of Environmental Services from Dothan, and the supervisor in Elba, also from Dothan, said that I wasn't doing my job, they are nothing but wrong. Also, I was a supervisor with ISS for about 5 years. Front-end loader containers have not been dumped like they were supposed to be dumped. There have been a lot of things that I don't think have been done right since I left there.

Sincerely,
Ray Price

Letters To The Editors

Dear Editor,

Though I have been away from my hometown of Elba for many years now, it warms my heart to know that the people here are so wonderful. My visit home for my son's graduation was almost marred by tragedy except for the intervention of God through the hands and hearts of many. We want to thank everyone that assisted us when our daughter, Abby, had a seizure while waiting for graduation ceremonies to begin. For those few we can name, Berinda, the DeBoer family, Bobby Baker, and all those whose faces we saw and can remember but have no names for as yet - we thank you and God bless you all.

Abby is doing well and thanks to you will continue doing well.

Parents and grandparents of Abby Burch, Mr. and Mrs. Russell A. Burch Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Bryan

Collins-Powell united in marriage

In a candlelight ceremony of tradition and elegance, Paula Briann Powell and Matthew Kevin Collins were united in marriage. Reverend Kenneth Odum conducted the double ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church of Florida on Saturday, December 31 at 5 o'clock p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Powell, Sr. of Andalusia. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bond Cade Collins of Dothan.

Nuptial music was provided by organist Mrs. Diane Jones of DeFuniak Springs, Florida. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Clara Pittman of Florida.

Red bows and garland led up to the entrance of the church. The doors were adorned with traditional Christmas wreaths. Mrs. Darren Hammonds, cousin of the bride, presided at the registry table.

The sanctuary of the church was beautifully decorated with a 15-branch candelabra being the focal point. A large gold wreath hung above the candelabra with garland draped to each side of the altar. Two spiral candelabras along with large Boston ferns added the finishing touch. The windows were decorated with large red candles surrounded with holly.

Paul E. Powell, Jr., brother of the bride, and Stephen Collins, brother of the groom, assisted the mothers of the bride and groom in lighting the unity candle, after lighting the candelabras.

After the seating of the mothers and grandmothers, Emily Hamilton and Jeremy Aaron of Andalusia, sang "After All". They also sang "The Wedding Song (There Is Love)", "Only God (Who Knows You More)", and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride entered the sanctuary to Wagner's "Wedding March" and was given in marriage by her father.

She was radiant in her gown of white satin. The fitted bodice was overlaid with beaded lace with miniature pearls and iridescents coming to a point below her waist. Her gown also featured a sweetheart neckline. Pearls and scalloped lace on the fitted sleeves came to a point on her hand. The full skirt was accented with a cathedral length train. The train fell beautifully with sequins and pearls along with a scalloped lace border.

The veil was a fingertip length of silk illusion which fell from a bandeau of silk roses, pearls, and sequins. She wore pearl and sequin earrings with a matching necklace.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, orchids, and baby's breath with a touch of ivy.

Mrs. Clay Overstreet of Grove Hill served her sister as matron of honor. The bride's youngest sister, Miss Julie Ann Powell of Troy, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas I. Powell III of Montgomery, Miss Leslie Dawn Harrison of DeFuniak Springs, FL, Miss Emily Elizabeth Bryan of Elba; Miss Betsy Suzanne Prior and Miss Laura Frances Prior of Opp, cousins of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore tea-length black satin gowns with a white scalloped dropped neckline. A long drop pearl surrounded by sequins accented the front of the neckline. Matching earrings were worn as a gift from the bride.

The bridesmaids carried bouquets of red poinsettias and ivy with a red candle in the center. Miss Jordan Michelle Allen of Montgomery served as flower girl. She wore a tea-length white linen dress with an off white lace collar and matching hair bow. She carried a white scalloped edge

Tips on Drying Clothes

Did you know that you may be able to eliminate ironing some clothes by using a dryer properly, especially if the clothes are permanent press or no-iron garments? Towels, jeans and underwear are softer and more comfortable to wear when they have been tumble dried.

Check the care label to make sure clothes can be dryer dried. Not all items can be dried on a heat setting. These items include rubber-coated items, laminate fabrics, vinyl, plastics, items containing foam rubber and some woollens.

Also, don't overdry fabrics. Elastic bands in shorts, socks or bras may feel damp when first removed from the dryer.

Milk is for Everyone

You may have heard that adults, especially men, don't need to drink milk. But as the old saying goes, you can't believe everything you hear. Everyone needs to drink milk.

Both men and women lose calcium from their bones as they get older. Women will lose 1% to 1.5% of their total skeletal mass in their first 10 years after menopause. However, after age 65 or 70, women and men lose bone mass at about the same rate. And don't think that osteoporosis is only a woman's disease.

Twenty percent of the 25 million Americans who suffer from this bone-thinning disease are men. As men live longer, the number of men with osteoporosis increases. Drinking milk provides the calcium necessary to help prevent this debilitating disease.

Wednesday from 6:00-9:00 p.m., and New Brackton High School on Mondays from 6:00-9:00 p.m. Interested adults may enroll in these classes.

Brandon Holliday was honored at awards ceremonies held on May 25 at 7:00 p.m. at Carter-Lawrence Middle School in Nashville, Tennessee.

Brandon, a sixth-grader, received the Presidential Scholar Award for making a 90 average on his report card for the past three years; and for placing in the 85 percentile and above on his T-CAP testing.

He also was recognized and received certificates for other academic honors: for winning the school's second place in the Metro Spelling Bee; for being a "Good Apple"; and for his outstanding Social Studies project, a castle made from popsicle sticks.

Brandon also received a Service Award, which is given to students who assist in the library and other areas of school service.

Collins-Powell united in marriage

In a candlelight ceremony of tradition and elegance, Paula Briann Powell and Matthew Kevin Collins were united in marriage. Reverend Kenneth Odum conducted the double ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church of Florida on Saturday, December 31 at 5 o'clock p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Powell, Sr. of Andalusia. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bond Cade Collins of Dothan.

Nuptial music was provided by organist Mrs. Diane Jones of DeFuniak Springs, Florida. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Clara Pitman of Florida.

Red bows and garland led up to the entrance of the church. The doors were adorned with traditional Christmas wreaths. Mrs. Darren Hammonds, cousin of the bride, presided at the registry table.

The sanctuary of the church was beautifully decorated with a 15-branch candelabra being the focal point. A large gold wreath hung above the candelabra with garland draped to each side of the altar. Two spiral candelabras along with large Boston ferns added the finishing touch. The windows were decorated with large red candles surrounded with holly.

Paul E. Powell, Jr., brother of the bride, and Stephen Collins, brother of the groom, assisted the mothers of the bride and groom in lighting the unity candle, after lighting the candelabras.

After the seating of the mothers and grandmothers, Emily Donaldson and Jeremy Aaron of Andalusia sang "After All." They also sang "The Wedding Song (There Is Love)," "Only God Could Love You More," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride entered the sanctuary to Wagner's "Wedding March" and was given in marriage by her father. She was radiant in her gown of white satin. The fitted bodice was overlaid with beaded lace with miniature pearls and ribbons coming to a point below her neck. Her gown also featured a sweetheart neckline. Pearls and scalloped lace on the fitted sleeves came to a point on her hand. The full skirt was accented with a cathedral length train. The train fell beautifully with sequins and pearls along with a scalloped lace border.

The veil was a fingertip length of silk illusion which fell from a bandeau of silk roses, pearls, and sequins. She wore pearl and sequin earrings with a matching necklace. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, orchids, and baby's breath with a touch of ivy. Mrs. Clay Overstreet of Grove Hill served her sister as matron of honor. The bride's youngest sister, Miss Julie Ann Powell of Troy, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas I. Powell III of Montgomery, Miss Leslie Dawn Harrison of DeFuniak Springs, FL, Miss Emily Elizabeth Bryan of Elba, Miss Betsy Suzanne Prior and Miss Laura Frances Prior of Opp, cousins of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore tea-length black satin gowns with a white scalloped dropped neckline. A long drop pearl surrounded by sequins accented the front of the neckline. Matching earrings were worn as a gift from the bride.

The bridesmaids carried bouquets of red poinsettias and ivy with a red candle in the center. Miss Jordan Michelle Allen of Montgomery served as flower girl. She wore a tea-length white linen dress with an off white lace collar and matching hair bow. She carried a white scalloped edge Powell, Jr. of Andalusia, brother of the bride; Anthony Charles Brown of Tuscaloosa; Franklin Lee Baker of Oklahoma City, OK; Mark Kae Kiler of Cullman; and David Michael Andrews of Dothan.

The groom, groomsmen, father of the bride, and ring bearer wore black Pierre Cardin double breasted tuxedos with black bow ties. They wore arrangements of poinsettias, pine, and yucca.

The mother of the bride chose a red tea-length crepe suit accented with sequin buttons and matching shoes. The mother of the groom wore a sapphire tea-length silk dress with a lace overlay and matching shoes.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Wilton Bryan of Elba, wore a navy two-piece suit with gold buttons. The groom's maternal grandmother, Ms. Annie Hollis of Wicksburg, chose an off-white two-piece suit with off-white and gold buttons. The groom's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Estelle Collins of Dothan, wore a long blue dress.

The bride's great-grandmother, Ms. Lois Hudson of Elba, wore a royal blue two-piece suit with a black bow tie.

Reception Immediately following the wedding, the couple was honored with a reception in the fellowship hall. The food tables were all covered with black linen cloths with white Battenburg cloth overlays. The center of attention was the bride's cake topped with red poinsettias and holly. Greenery and poinsettias surrounded the fountain underneath the cake.

The groom's table held a double layer chocolate cake decorated with various fruits and the initial "C". A picture of the groom was displayed on the groom's table.

Guests were served festive Christmas punch from a silver punch fountain. Guests also enjoyed hors d'oeuvres of barbecued pork, pickled shrimp, croissants, various sandwiches, fruit and vegetable trays, and other finger foods. Centering the food tables was an arrangement of poinsettias, pine, and yucca.

The couples gift table was flanked by a large framed picture of the bride in her wedding gown. A slide presentation of the bride and groom through the years was enjoyed by all the guests.

Mrs. Michael Fleming and Mrs. Michael Beasley of Troy served as the bride's table. Mrs. Joshua Collins and Mrs. Geoffrey Collins of Memphis, Tennessee, served at the groom's table. Mrs. Tim Powell of Florida and Miss Nina Thompson of DeFuniak Springs, Florida assisted at the punch fountain.

The reception was directed by Mrs. Joe Prior of Opp, who was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Overstreet of Grove Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bryan of Elba.

Miss Kelly Ann Powell, Miss Rachel Nicole Powell, and Miss Rebecca Prudence Powell, all of Florida, cousins of the bride, passed out birdseed bags.

A menu of chicken cordon bleu, rice pilaf, string beans, tossed salad, and rolls was served. Strawberry shortcake was served for dessert.

The bride and groom chose this time to present the wedding party with gifts. Tracy Overstreet and Leslie Harrison entertained with a slide presentation along with selected music. The slides were of the couple from early childhood to present day. This was a pleasant surprise to the bride and groom.

Views from....

The Pressbox

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

Last week was a big one around the Mularz house as Melissa graduated from Elementary School and Melanie graduated from kindergarten. Both girls got the chance to walk across the stage and get their diplomas and both were mighty excited after the events ended. I know we've got a long way to go before they get out of school but at least we've passed the first stage.

I heard that another potential basketball coach was interviewed last week at Elba High School, and maybe before long, the school will make the announcement concerning who will take over the reins of what could be a highly successful program. The Tigers have had four different head coaches in the past five years, not exactly what the school officials or the players want, and you can bet the delay in naming a new coach is due to the fact that the school officials want to get just the right man for the job, and get a coach that will stay in Elba, and build a stable program.

Two teams from the 12 and Under Girl's Softball League competed in a softball tournament last weekend in Enterprise, and the teams made everyone in the league proud by placing 4th and 5th, in the 18-team event. The Yellowjackets claimed 4 wins before being ousted and really made some noise with their bats, while the Wildcats got off to a fast start with two early wins, but then lost two straight. The play of the Elba teams in the tourney showed everyone that the girls in Elba are just as good as girls from other towns, and speaks well for the girl's program in the City.

I wrote a short note bragging about Elba's junior college and college baseball players last week, and this week will try and catch up on old news by giving a big pat on the back to former Elba Tiger basketball standout David Yelverton, who helped his Faulkner Junior College team reach the National Junior College Basketball Tournament. Yelverton was one of the state's top players coming out of high school, and chose to go to the junior college route in hopes of widening his choices with four year schools. After last season's success, Yelverton may have a hard time making a choice!

The District 7 Men's Class D softball tournament will be held this weekend in Eufaula, and at least two Elba teams have excellent shots at earning a spot at sub-state. The Elba Merchants and City Merchants have both been playing well all season and appear to be peaking at just the right time. The Class D tourney is always loaded with talent; however, the Elba teams are better than average, and if they get hot, could bring home some silverware.

Wildcats place fifth

Yellowjackets place 4th in 18-team girl's tourney

The Yellowjackets softball team, of Elba, competed in the 18-team Enterprise Girl's Softball Tournament last weekend and claimed four wins to bring home fourth place honors.

The Yellowjackets, coached by Reb Bludworth, opened the tourney with wins over the Enterprise Rebels 9-3, Troy A's 17-7 and Geneva Lady Panthers 16-1, to reach the semi-finals of the winner's bracket.

The Jackets scored 7 runs in the first inning in the win over the Rebels and held on for the win, while in the win over the Troy A's, the Yellowjackets trailed 5-1 after two innings and staged a late rally for the win.

Roshanda McKinnon scored 3 runs in the win over the A's, while Derri Kilcrease, Michelle Lewis, Rachel Bludworth, Melissa Mularz, Aubrey Williams and Courtney Turner all scored twice.

The Yellowjackets remained alive in the double-elimination event with an 8-2 win over the Geneva Lady Mets, Melissa Sanders and Roshanda McKinnon both scored twice in the win.

The Yellowjackets saw their tournament trip come to an end as the Geneva Lady Panthers rallied from a 7-2 deficit to oust the Jackets 11-7, in eight innings. Rachel Bludworth scored 2 runs in the game.

The Wildcats, also of Elba, claimed two wins in the tourney to place fifth. The Wildcats claimed wins over the Dixie Darlings, of Enterprise, 4-2 and the Eufaula Tigers 10-0, but then dropped back-to-back decisions to Samson 5-4 and the Geneva Lady Panthers 10-6.

Leading hitters in the tourney for the Wildcats were Haley Coleman, Oneida Davis, Renee Wambles, Amy Kirkland and Casey Skinner.

said Kyle, "You don't get that with paid ambulance services."

"I just want to let you know we are in dire need of help for the Elba Rescue Squad," stated Kyle.

He told Lions the squad is "hurting" for EMTs and EVOG drivers.

At the present time, the squad is trying to work out an agreement with local companies and businesses, which have employees who are EMTs, to allow them to answer emergency calls without loss of pay.

During this critical situation, Kyle stated that rescue squads from New Brockton, Opp and Andalusia are assisting in answering daytime emergencies in Elba and the local area.

They are also making transfers, hospital to hospital, during this time.

Kyle, during a question and answer session, briefed the Lions on the qualifications of becoming a member of the rescue squad.

He encouraged any member of the Lions Club who wished to join the unit to do so and to encourage others to join too.

Kyle concluded his talk by placing emphasis on the fact that the rescue squad is a vital part of the community, and that everything possible should be done to continue its operation.

APPROVES REVENUE COMMISSIONER'S ANNUAL SETTLEMENT WITH THE STATE

Commission awards bids and votes to cut DYS funds

by Marvin McIlwain
Editor

In Monday's meeting, the Coffee County Commission gave the go ahead for the construction of a storage building for the county health department and voted to cut DYS funds.

Commissioners, in their May 22nd meeting, sent out bid invitations on a 30 x 40 foot metal storage building. The bid specifications stipulated that the building be on a concrete slab and have nine fluorescent overhead lights. An additional walkway and tapered driveway were also included in the bid.

The only bid received on the building was from Enco Construction Company of Enterprise. Their bid was $19,905.00.

Commissioners accepted the lone bid noting that Kenneth Ball, who is with the Coffee County Health Department, had stated in previous meetings that his agency had $20,000 which could be used toward funding the construction. It appears that will be enough without the county having to provide any additional monies.

A discussion concerning the supplemental funding of the Department of Youth Services (DYS) consumed a large portion of Monday's meeting.

Currently, the commission is supplementing the salaries of the three (3) juvenile officers serving the county. The state is required, by law, to pay the remainder of the salary.

County Administrator Wilson Mobley told commissioners that the county pays the full amount of the salaries, and the state reimburses the county for their portion.

He noted that no funds have been received from the state since February. The DYS had expended all its funds and it will take legislative action to replace or provide additional funds to the department. Meanwhile, the county has been taking up the slack.

After several minutes of discussion, Commissioner Bill Faulk made a motion to cease paying the total amount as of July 1st.

After that date, the motion stated that the county will pay only that portion of the juvenile officers' salaries as required by law.

An attempt to amend Faulk's motion was made by Commissioner Robert Stephens but it failed due to lack of a second.

Stephens proposed that the commission continue paying the full amount until October which is when the fiscal year ends.

Next, Burns noted, "We are in very bad need of a vehicle for the mapping & appraisal department."

He told members of the commission that his office had collected almost $1.7 million in taxes and sent it to the Coffee County Commission. The commission approved Burns' report as presented.
